Conclusion
Announcements
Society
Privacy Policies and Laws

Mark Zuckerberg in San Francisco, January 8, 2010

"People have really gotten comfortable not only sharing more information and different kinds, but more openly and with more people. That social norm is just something that has evolved over time."
Privacy Policies and Laws

Mark Zuckerberg in San Francisco, January 8, 2010
"People have really gotten comfortable not only sharing more information and different kinds, but more openly and with more people. That social norm is just something that has evolved over time."

Tim Cook in Brussels, October 24, 2018
Privacy Policies and Laws

Mark Zuckerberg in San Francisco, January 8, 2010

"People have really gotten comfortable not only sharing more information and different kinds, but more openly and with more people. That social norm is just something that has evolved over time."

Tim Cook in Brussels, October 24, 2018

"We at Apple are in full support of a comprehensive federal privacy law in the United States. There, and everywhere, it should be rooted in four essential rights:
Mark Zuckerberg in San Francisco, January 8, 2010

"People have really gotten comfortable not only sharing more information and different kinds, but more openly and with more people. That social norm is just something that has evolved over time."

Tim Cook in Brussels, October 24, 2018

"We at Apple are in full support of a comprehensive federal privacy law in the United States. There, and everywhere, it should be rooted in four essential rights:

• First, the right to have personal data minimized. Companies should challenge themselves to de-identify customer data, or not to collect it in the first place."
Privacy Policies and Laws

Mark Zuckerberg in San Francisco, January 8, 2010

"People have really gotten comfortable not only sharing more information and different kinds, but more openly and with more people. That social norm is just something that has evolved over time."

Tim Cook in Brussels, October 24, 2018

"We at Apple are in full support of a comprehensive federal privacy law in the United States. There, and everywhere, it should be rooted in four essential rights:

• First, the right to have personal data minimized. Companies should challenge themselves to de-identify customer data, or not to collect it in the first place.
• Second, the right to knowledge. Users should always know what data is being collected and what it is being collected for. This is the only way to empower users to decide what collection is legitimate and what isn’t. Anything less is a sham."
Privacy Policies and Laws

Mark Zuckerberg in San Francisco, January 8, 2010

"People have really gotten comfortable not only sharing more information and different kinds, but more openly and with more people. That social norm is just something that has evolved over time."

Tim Cook in Brussels, October 24, 2018

"We at Apple are in full support of a comprehensive federal privacy law in the United States. There, and everywhere, it should be rooted in four essential rights:

• First, the right to have personal data minimized. Companies should challenge themselves to de-identify customer data, or not to collect it in the first place.

• Second, the right to knowledge. Users should always know what data is being collected and what it is being collected for. This is the only way to empower users to decide what collection is legitimate and what isn’t. Anything less is a sham.

• Third, the right to access. Companies should recognize that data belongs to users, and we should all make it easy for users to get a copy of, correct, and delete their personal data."
Privacy Policies and Laws

Mark Zuckerberg in San Francisco, January 8, 2010
"People have really gotten comfortable not only sharing more information and different kinds, but more openly and with more people. That social norm is just something that has evolved over time."

Tim Cook in Brussels, October 24, 2018
"We at Apple are in full support of a comprehensive federal privacy law in the United States. There, and everywhere, it should be rooted in four essential rights:

• First, the right to have personal data minimized. Companies should challenge themselves to de-identify customer data, or not to collect it in the first place.
• Second, the right to knowledge. Users should always know what data is being collected and what it is being collected for. This is the only way to empower users to decide what collection is legitimate and what isn’t. Anything less is a sham.
• Third, the right to access. Companies should recognize that data belongs to users, and we should all make it easy for users to get a copy of, correct, and delete their personal data.
• And fourth, the right to security. Security is foundational to trust and all other privacy rights."
Perils of Sharing
Perils of Sharing

A persistent source of privacy breaches: sending a message to an unintended recipient
Perils of Sharing

A persistent source of privacy breaches: sending a message to an unintended recipient

Grandmas keep accidentally tagging themselves as Grandmaster Flash on Facebook
Perils of Sharing

A persistent source of privacy breaches: sending a message to an unintended recipient.

Grandmas keep accidentally tagging themselves as Grandmaster Flash on Facebook.

Grandmaster Flash was mentioned in a post.

Darla Smeltkop
July 5

Happy birthday Cassie and Jessie. It is hard to believe 20 years have gone by so fast. Wish we could be there. Love Grandpa and Grandmaster Flash.

Share

3 people like this.

Grandmaster Flash was mentioned in a post.

Evelyn Shoemaker
July 5

Happy bday Jaden. Have a great day. Your card has been mailed. Love you.

Grandmaster Flash

Share
Software
Automated Decision Making
Automated Decision Making

What should the self-driving car do?
Automated Decision Making

What should the self-driving car do?
Life
That's all. Thanks!